

THE BLACK WATCH (ROYAL HIGHLAND REGIMENT) OF CANADA DURING A RECENT EXERCISE
 Top: British Valentines which have been "captured" by the Black Watch during a practice battle.

Centre: Men of the Black Watch with a "captured" British tank.
 Bottom: L/Cpl. P. D. Kerr (Verdun, P.Q.), of the Signal Section of the Black Watch, reports progress to Battalion Headquarters during the battle.
 Canadian Official Military Photographs.

(a)

(b)

(c)

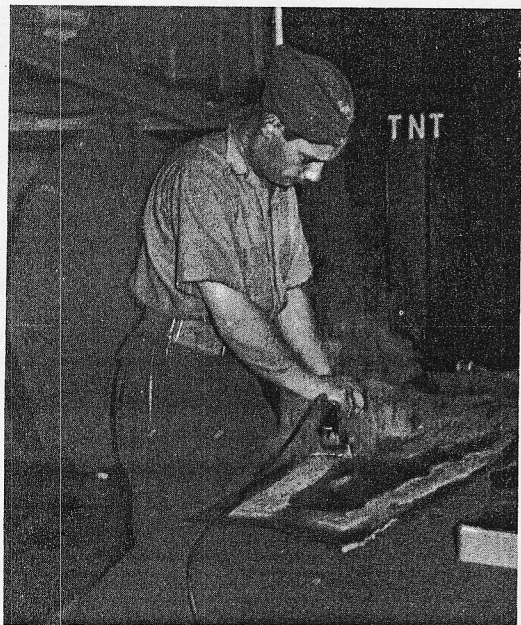

UN BATAILLON DE GENIE S'INSTALLE EN ANGLETERRE

Au dessus: à gauche—Le capitaine Alphonse Marcoux, ancien vicaire de Thetford Mines, P.Q., l'aumônier d'un bataillon de Génie. A droite—Gaston Chassé, à gauche, reçoit la visite de son frère Albani Chassé du Royal 22e Régiment. Les frères viennent de Drummondville, P.Q.

Au milieu: à gauche—Le commandant d'un bataillon de Génie donne des instructions à Gilles Villiard, de Sorel, un chauffeur de camionnette de son unité. A droite—Armand Marion, de Montréal, et Onésime Goulet, de Timmins, Ont., goûtent la soupe.
 Au dessous: à gauche—Georges Tremblay, de Montréal, exerce un nouveau métier en Angleterre: on le voit ici presser un pantalon.
 A droite—Jos. Benoit, de Bedford, P.Q., transporte une boîte surchargée de pain à l'heure du lunch.

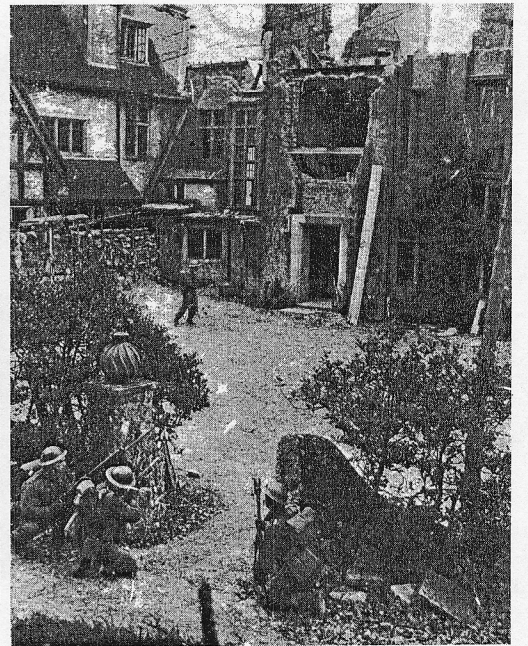

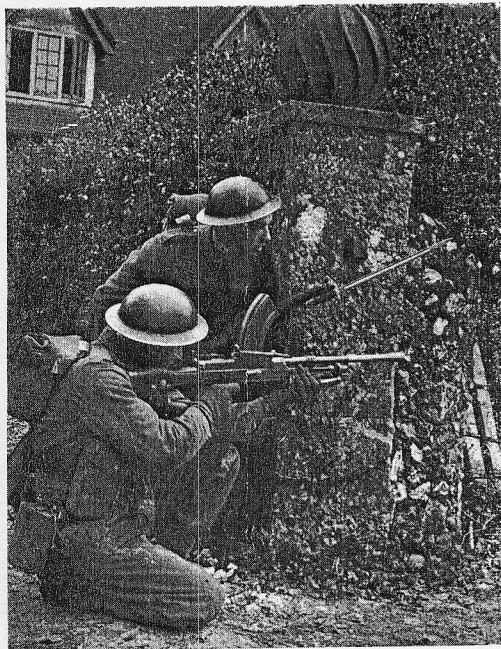

Canadian Official Military Photographs.

The Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada Carry Out Battle Training

Canadian Official Military Photographs.

Top: Left—Men of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada clearing a wood during battle drill training. Right—A platoon lined up showing their formidable fire power. Centre: Left—Pte. G. Barrett and Pte. J. Smale (both Verdun, P.Q.) covering the movement of their section during house clearing drill. Centre: The colonel (extreme right) holding a group conference with his officers (left to right) Lieut. T. D. Anyon, Lieut. H. G. Mackenzie, Lieut. M. Cassils, Lieut. F. H. Cundill, Major J. B. Weir (all Montreal), and Capt. J. A. Kenny (Buckingham, P.Q.). Right—Under covering fire the section leader going in with his men to clear the building.

Bottom: Left—Lieut. T. D. Anyon (Montreal) giving his instructions to section leaders before tackling an objective. Right—Troops climbing into the upper windows to hunt out any of the enemy left after they have been silenced by a barrage of fire from the attackers.

Le Regiment de Maisonneuve Instruct Home Guard in Battle Drill

Top: Left—Lieut. H. E. C. Leith (Montreal) with some of his men after giving a demonstration of anti-tank tactics. Right—Cpl. H. Paquette (Montreal) explaining a bomb to members of a Surrey battalion of the Home Guard. (Photographs: "Canada's Weekly"—A.H.C.)

Centre: Left—Sgt. R. McDuff (Montreal) explaining fighting patrol tactics to Sgt. C. A. Nichols of the Home Guard; on the right is Cpl. L. Doyon (Montreal) and also in the picture are Cpl. P. Sanguinette (Montreal), L/Cpl. A. Saguin (Hawkesbury, Ont.) and L/Cpl. A. Pepin (Montreal). (Photograph: "Canada's Weekly"—A.H.C.) Right: (left to right)—Major M. Archambault (Montreal) talking to Major R. M. Preston and Lieut.-Col. F. Marshall of the Home Guard. (Canadian Official Military Photograph.)
 Bottom: Left—(left to right) Capt. J. Bibeau (Montreal) and Capt. J. W. Ostiguay (Montreal), who was in charge of instruction, talking to Major G. S. Mackay of the Home Guard. (Canadian Official Military Photograph.) Centre—Men of the Regiment de Maisonneuve watching a demonstration of bombs used in anti-tank warfare. (Photograph: "Canada's Weekly"—A.H.C.) Right—Pte. J. Nolin (St. Théodore, P.Q.), Sgt. D. Godin (Montreal) and L/Cpl. R. Dufour (Montreal) demonstrating a Bren gun to members of the Home Guard. (Canadian Official Military Photograph.)

